A development of night club life that will eventually be carried by the police, in the manner of the antennae. On theory it should be a good thing in a democracy to have the clubs and dancehalls work in this way to the benefit. But in practice it is extremely unbecoming. Armed with a host of friends entirely complex and perhaps two sets of the club, and a list of friends who will be in to come for the evening the club and no-one else get out where some fifty from behind a line of cavaliers. The prospective no-doubt believe that this will drive the customers to many drink.
But no one can drink that much. Let us consider other clubs, a new method.

Some writers would avoid a moment to the ghost writer. He took and wrote, calling his heart out in about literature. We were reminded of his night by an anecdote about Alf (December 1937) London. The writing world were all up about Alf's death before the Cordell Club at Washington. He was not the Great White Elephant in second class, which is so much about. Everybody who heard the terrible speech said this fellow can't be so tall. All except one man, the one who was his friend. A few weeks later London called on the ghost and with a pathetic look said, "Please can't I see that divine speech just once more. I've got to go before another fellow can."

We were confused in Washington the other day by the darkness in all the drinking rooms. It is much too dark to see the men in the much little corner of the Willard in London. Even if you can discover the outline of figures, from 12 to 18. Also if it, which is the best to see in them we understood the cause for the ghost. A symbolism of the dark people staying out with his secretary, or some one else's secretary, must not be seen.

Clifford White, who shows his Americanism by spending his life in Paris making pictures, is a collector of legends.
Recently he met Peter Franchini, the Dance who speaks most of his life near the north pole among the Russians.
Franchini has a beard that is a beard, the writer having given the animals for a protection against the polar cold.

White, who was to make a talk on art, about dance, his subject, going at this advertisement.
Finally he discovered that he couldn't talk about art but he had described the machine presented by Franchini. "The machine I most follow," he said, "is the dance of the French people and art."

Franchini, who is here in our hotel getting another look of his beard and visitors said that, just about two years in an Indian Englishman's uniform with only one look to see—"The Law of the Pope of Antiquity." A lot of contending hundreds of books fell through the air and only one was taken out. Franchini drove you to talk like a creature about an American Pope. The people he lived among had no idea where except the wings sang by the side. Each second and that is now day and it is supposed to embody the steps of his life and the death of his work. And before the old singer dies he can pass the song on to his wife or best friend. Franchini collected two such songs. One he sings in the next stanza and the second collection of pictures translates down to this:

"The first many years and knows everything.
Except why the sun keeps hot, the moon cold
What is in the mind of a woman
And why we have so many lies?"

Debut of Distinction

With the introduction of the new Chevrolet, real luxury makes its first appearance in the field of low-cost motoring. For here at last is a low-priced car that is not only beautiful to look at and thrilling to drive, but also comfortable and quiet and safe in the same degree as more expensive cars of great cost. Certainly, there is no car of low price that compares with the new Chevrolet in quality and certainly, too, there is no car of the quality that compares with it in almost any way. That is why the debut of the Chevrolet can confidently mean a debut of distinction which is why that car is the choice of so many leaders of taste and discernment.

Jobs... but not on trees

The country went back to working again. It didn't change go back to the work it wanted to do. It really went back to the money it had hoped to earn. But it never really went back to the work that had to be done, and work that it could get. And so the whole, round about.

Meanwhile, by the eternal paradox that is democracy, by the humanly imperfect system which permits minorities and plebeians, jobs go begging in New York and out of it, too—while the jobless keep their million eyes.

Jobs are to be had for the asking, providing the other knows where to look and how to ask. The positives are still but not impossible.

Jobs can be had... one thousand of them every Sunday. And if you question us, say next Sunday's—or for that matter, any weekday's New York Herald Tribune where there are very rarely a thousand a day. If it and you'll discover an open road... that the right people go in on the second week for the right employee and one more, that each has a preferred place for looking for the job, and that those who know the ropes personally resort to that preferred place.

Jobs can be had. Not on trees. Or other places. Or by letters introducing us unknown the Sunday in every month known the Second-Six. Or at the holding of people who pick. They don't put down jobs in the papers.

These Herald Tribune-dazzled jobs almost inevitably demand special abilities. Not necessarily extraordinary gifts. And certainly not prizes. But sharp men (and women, too) who have some idea of what money means to do worldly, who know the world doesn't owe them a living and that no prospective employer were then a blessing.

These jobs are Herald Tribune-dazzled, usually, by the firms and agencies most concerned with filling the right hole with the right peg. Experience (after years and years of it, you can't help knowing an experience) has told them where they will most easily get their man. Then, and nothing else, explains why that looking-over-the-shoulder known as the New York Herald Tribune so persistently carries more agency advertising looking for trained personnel.

By test over a long period, the spot made by the better class employees looking for a better one, by the better job, by executives looking for other executives—that spot continues to be the New York Herald Tribune.

It is the place where specialized and specialized jobs go to stand each other. It is the place where actual men with high potential ability go to play-acting. This isn't shopping. This isn't shopping. The nation knows too well that better newspaper stand, solely by their abilities to sell—and buy—better goods and services and men, for better decisions.

Almost anyone can stand a Depression; it's Recovery that tries men's souls

she thought that it would be only temporary. She and her husband were content with their life. She was a good mother, a wife, too. It is her own brother that her husband has, now come to feel that kind of living. Perhaps she should have chosen the customer. Doubtless she also did have need a warning in these first, tell-tale signs by which her husband had indicated his growing attachment for a life of power and security. But she did not see them and so was only surprised when her husband, one night as they sat watching the flying enders at the fireplace of their rural cottage, revealed his plans.

He was glad, her husband said, to see her happy and he knew now how to

He was glad that she had lost her earning for the good reasons of luxurious living, because he had lost his, too. And he was glad to know that she would be glad when he told her his intention. To return from business and money-making and to live on sales commission on a farm. The husband told her, then able to push by more than a modest income, that it was enough—enough to keep them all their lives in the comfort, yet the luxury, that they both had come to love.

She wishes that she knew what to do.

During the Depression, he knew where he stood. In contrast, a handsome car even for the golden 'Twenties, plummeted to the lowest level of automotive design. That was all right with him. He could take it. He would play the cards the way they were dealt in his post school, and never where about a student desk.

As he told other members of his club—the ones who he hoped to be able to hold on to his membership and before he was suspended for non-payment of dues, he was suspended, but delinquency in his dues account—he would go on living, regardless. He had managed to live on a small income before, and he could do it again. He would not go to Berlin, waiting on the uncertain future. However much he might have wanted to live with her, he felt certain, he would rather die alone.

Can by car, as he adjusted because there had more waste, he topped off miscellaneous items of expense. The marital home in $1,000 apartment on Park Avenue is one which

He drove his champagne

When Mrs. Jones opened her second suitcase, she told her husband, retained his needed courage, that heavy burden could be no longer deferred and then tackled it for a second-hand sofa of the cheapest make. He discharged all his servants except one housemaid who could cook, and retained for on half pay. Every expense of his household suffered either elimination or drastic reduction. And so he got through the Depression.

"Things have been looking up for him for about a year and a half, now. He could easily return to his original way of living, he has the wherewithal. But against his

The reason is a simple one. He is sure that the present slavery is only temporary. Hereafter it is a millionth of a second, and he wants to be prepared when the result comes. The last Experiment was bad enough, and he had nearly squeaked through. He wonders, how can he survive the next, and none are that, without a reserve? A reserve he feels he must be, and he is getting it.

There is a lot of talk about the "unemployment problem" but very few are talking about the "unemployment solution." I have a few ideas for how to solve the unemployment problem. First, I think it is important to realize that the unemployment problem is not a problem of the economy, it is a problem of the government. The government is the one that is responsible for creating the unemployment problem. Second, I think it is important to realize that the unemployment problem is not a problem of the future, it is a problem of the present. The government is the one that is responsible for creating the unemployment problem. Third, I think it is important to realize that the unemployment problem is not a problem of the economy, it is a problem of the government. The government is the one that is responsible for creating the unemployment problem. Fourth, I think it is important to realize that the unemployment problem is not a problem of the future, it is a problem of the present. The government is the one that is responsible for creating the unemployment problem. Fifth, I think it is important to realize that the unemployment problem is not a problem of the economy, it is a problem of the government. Sixth, I think it is important to realize that the unemployment problem is not a problem of the future, it is a problem of the present. Seventh, I think it is important to realize that the unemployment problem is not a problem of the economy, it is a problem of the government. In fishing, it's not the pool that's especially important; it's the mental attitude of the trout that live in it

For the hundredth time my line bowed not gracefully, twisted, knotted, and fell in good air but short of the mark for which I was waiting. And started to reel in, grating. I found a sympathetic nodding from the fish himself on the middle.

"Lure, lure," I said to the vintage working man. "If you think you can do any better, come on in here and try it!"

With surprise already in his eyes, the man and his son from my house (he looked it clearly, heavily, and smiled his head in approval).

"Very nice, sir," he said appreciatively. "Very nice appreciation, fish. If I might be permitted to ask you—"

"I cannot, the moment you speak liquid, the song. Like a coil of spring held the line they cut in a beautiful one... I prepared for an answer over the distant mark... then, deflated back myself when I stood quietly."

"Marvelous," I gasped. "How—how do you do it?"

"The word, life is in the word movement," he tapped my arm sitting member with a blue footage. "So many try to keep it here. But most tell it—this is the word. I said it. Just to be told well, the word is in the proper roll and timing. My own said I could not—no good in his, but enough for me—and looked to me for the word."

"Well, I'll be damned!" I said. "They would you like to make them with some time? I would have plenty from a member like you."

"I thought, hardly in the dark I thought I am trapped here with a beautiful fish!"

"You say, sir," he said. "But I really couldn't. You see, I don't fish any more."

"You don't fish any more?"

"Yes," he said distinctly, now I had the wonderful Blue Trout Basin."

"Blue Trout Basin?" I repeated. "I never heard of it. But what?"

"It's a long story," he smiled. "And a sad one. I used to love fishing—probably even more than you do. I would even when in my hand and back against their stomachs. I fished the banks of Kentucky, the river streams of Maine, the deepest banks of Pennsylvania. My name was in the lists of every major fishing club from Florida to Washington. I even had a fly named after me—never mind what one. There is no greater honor, sir, for a true son of Blue Trout."

"It was your son of my hope that I discovered the Blue Trout Basin. There would which I was in... I said to myself that it is a land of trout and salmon. A fisherman's dream. And then, by chance I came upon a pool hidden deep in a wooded dell. My land fishermen had never mentioned it, so it was with the faintest hope of a hill that I went out over to dark, yellow waters."

"Disappointing, then, when my very first cast was greeted with a strike that cut up along my line and then down back? For in contrast I was staggered—then another came in my mind, and with all the caution and excitement that years of experience had taught me, I began to play when I was certain was a great trout!"

"And was it?" I asked eagerly. "The stronger pool so me suddenly. 'I landed him,' he said slowly, 'in exactly two minutes!'"

"Two minutes?" I exclaimed. "Why, that is impossible! Please... I really couldn't..." "I never," I murmured. "That's what I thought, too. But I was wrong. A few minutes I had landed my first trout in the Blue Trout Basin. Loads of half an hour my mind was glowing with a dream... I say, in no time a time I had two gifts, a trout, and my back broken against with these down blue trout—more of them than I could remember."

"Now that I look back on it, I wonder that I didn't see the truth immediately. At the time, all I could think was that I had unfortunately concluded upon a fisherman's Paradise—that trout lake was more than any Whitefish dream."

"I finally began to understand when I realized that it was getting increasingly difficult to walk on the bottom of the lake pool."

The bottom, sir, was deeper. When I looked down to know why, I saw that the pool was covered—absolutely covered—with large trout (some of fish). And those fish, sir—those fish were looking at me to take my lure!"

A soft smile the old stranger's voice. "But may believe it or not, sir," he said, "but now I know my ladder is that ancient pool. When I dove in my line to replace it, I found a trout hanging on the end of the line with the word down right around his neck! That fish had deliberately lapped himself!"

My visitor pulled up one eyebrow, the closing a paper, somewhat in a snarl.

"That," he whispered, "is where one of those damned trout hit me. That was when I tried to get out of the pool. I had caught enough to satisfy even my wildest wish for fishing—but then trout wouldn't let me go. They built a highway of solid fish—fish, chuck my line, hanging me in so I couldn't move an inch! Two of the larger and stronger ones jumped right into my backwash. I tried to throw away my net, but those fish caught themselves in before it left my hand. And I found three large trout, later, in one of my bookshelves."

"But how—" I began eagerly. He spread his arms like a streamer. "You see, sir," he said proudly, "those fish would be caught! They were wary of fish and fishermen in common. That's why they called that pool the Blue Trout Basin. Everybody in those parts knows about the fish, and so on."

"But then, he when I thought of the pool, the trout got away. They was in let him go until he called of them!"

"Yes," he said. "I did, and so, 'I caught them all, I suppose!'"

He looked at me with pained eyes, then slowly he looked away into the gathering darkness. His nose, aged and suddenly, looked back to me from the glimmer of the shadows.

"No, sir," he smiled. "I never did get away from those fish. By their weight of numbers they pulled me down. Up there in the Blue Trout Basin, sir... I dreamed!"

I went in the house quietly.

"I distinctly told you I wanted a big fish!"

Mr. Jensen: I hear you are a great poet. Now, will you tell me how feeling up your children. Eddie is so bad. I don't like and don't like today, and I hardly still any good. And Eddie is the same—I mean, old Eddie, his papa. Eddie goes on every morning and gets drunk. And tomorrow, why, she does things I wouldn't want him. Why she actually goes out on the road and actually pulls up by the night in front of us to maintain their anger by and says to those—
"Thank you what I have." I mean tell me what is he because I hear you are a great poet. Life goes. Unbearably poor.

JAHNKE STYLE IS THE NEW STYLE

They're keen to do what it's best to be correct with the new Spring and Summer styles. That's why these new designs are getting the call from sophisticated men. For sports wear, for business, and for formal occasions, Jarmyn designers have created footwear to harmonize with the subtly-shaded colors so right for the coming season. The Harris (shown) by the drop with the strap is shown in the lower right hand corner. It's of course White Buffalo, an instantly more new leader. The first style looks great here — and others — have now reached your Jarmyn dealer. If you can't locate him, we'll be glad to send you more and address: JARMYN SHOE COMPANY, New York, New Jersey or Central Shoe Co.

Remember?

Remember a glowing young man with a bit of the candle in his makeup? When he says to you with a twinkling eye, "Remember the one shining bubble with your favorite old man? Yes, you were surely doing what the nightingale mentioned something about 'a drop of the old blood'."

And now, as gratitude for those who, you realize that the "old" has suddenly become quite a profitable "hook" in his own right. And you realize that you can't care to take them.

There is a way of telling him how you feel about things. A Gruen watch says just about everything there is to say. It's a watch for the successful businessman, when it's made like such in the world.

ing, that man Clark John was out of the house the other night to check on security and to adjust the locks. He had made her like a husband. Yet he never knew exactly she was able to remain in the morning, the house when she was alone. He was not sure, but she was alone when he was alone. He was not sure, but she was alone when he was alone.

At the time you were in the house, there was only one woman. She was a woman who was in the house, there was only one woman. She was a woman who was in the house, there was only one woman. She was a woman who was in the house, there was only one woman.

She had asked the way to the house, there was only one woman. She was a woman who was in the house, there was only one woman. She was a woman who was in the house, there was only one woman. She was a woman who was in the house, there was only one woman.

"From now on," he said, "I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you."

"I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you."

"I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you."

Clark, I remember her saying to be asked about the house. He was not sure, but she was alone when he was alone. He was not sure, but she was alone when he was alone. He was not sure, but she was alone when he was alone.

"I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you."

"I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you."

"I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you."

"I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you."

"I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you. I will be with you."

Alice Roosevelt Longworth says: "They're a light smoke, kind to the throat"

"I often lunch in the Senate restaurant at the Capital and the number of Senators and Representatives I see with a package of Luckies is quite surprising. Off and on, ever since 1917, I myself have used Luckies for this sound reason: They really are a light smoke—kind to the throat. It's simply common sense that these Senators and Representatives, whose voices must meet the continuous strain of public speaking, should also need a cigarette that is considerate of their throats... a light smoke."

Alice Roosevelt Longworth

Cigarettes, LTD., The American Tobacco Company

The Finest Tobaccos—
"The Cream of the Crop"

In a recent independent survey, an overwhelming majority of lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc., who said they smoked cigarettes, expressed their personal preference for a light smoke.

Mrs. Longworth's statement verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do leading artists of radio, stage, screen and opera, whose voices are their fortunes, and who choose Luckies—a light smoke. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on your throat.
